MAIN COURSES

Adobo of the Week
Ask which version of our classic Filipino Adobo, we're serving this week. 580

Catalina Snapper
Lightly-breaded pan-fried fish in Plantation Bay's own salsa. 780

Grilled Norwegian Salmon
Cooked "rare", with a delicate texture and a far-better taste than "well-done" salmon. 780

Garlic Beef
Beef cubes sautéed in garlic. 780

Twice Fried Pork Belly
When French cooks make pork-belly dishes, they're "daring". When Filipino cooks make a far-better pork-belly dish, they're "greasy". This is a Plantation Bay original — if you like pork, call us greasy but don't leave without trying this dish. 680

Vegan Salisbury Steak
With mushroom gravy. Acclaimed by many vegetarian guests. 480

DEVILISH DESSERTS

Ube (Oooh-beh) Pound Cake
The Filipino Flavor that's conquering the world, ube (wrongly called Purple Yam by some) tastes deliciously familiar but isn't quite like anything you've ever had before. A Must-Try for visitors, and for Filipinos who want to finally taste an ube cake Done Right, like everything in Plantation Bay. 380

The Great New York Cheesecake
A classic baked cheesecake, with blueberry preserves. 380

Fruity Fibrous Finish
A light personal meal-ender. Ask for the Chef's Combination or a single type of fruit. Generally, these would include mango, watermelon, Fuji apple, native banana, dwarf sweet pineapple, pomelo, papaya, and guava (but not all of them on any given day). Pitted Medjool dates (about 4), California prunes (about 6), and Filipino fruit salad always available. 260
